| This is us

We are a specialist planning law firm set up at the end of 2016 by some of the leading figures in the planning law sector.

We advise on all aspects of planning law, across England and Wales. We act for a range of clients, including developers, landowners, and public authorities.

One of our partners is a leading planning barrister, which is one of the things that sets Town apart and provides added value to clients, in terms of the quality and speed of our advice.

We are the most highly rated planning law firm in the country, according to Planning magazine's 2019, 2020, 2021 and 2022 annual planning law survey. We are ranked in the top band of London planning law teams in Chambers Directory and Legal 500 and listed in The Times survey, Best Law Firms 2021.

'Town Legal provides us with the highest quality of advice and support across our schemes. That Town contains some of the best and nimblest minds in planning law gives us great confidence when we know that more niche queries can always be subject to a 'straw poll' across the office.'

'Being a boutique planning law practice has allowed Town Legal to focus on giving great advice, rather than be weighed down by vast management structures. It is no mistake that the firm has so quickly established a 'top spot' reputation in the planning field.'

(Legal 500, 2021)

OUR WORK INCLUDES:

- Strategic planning law advice
- Legal audit of planning applications
- Section 106 and other planning agreements
- Planning appeals, call-ins, inquiries, hearings, written representations
- Local plan examinations
- Litigation- judicial review and legal challenges
- Highways law
- CPO and compensation law (including conducting claims in the Upper Tribunal)
- Corporate and real estate transaction support
- Community Infrastructure Levy
- Legal advice in relation to environmental impact assessment and related EU legislation
- Certificates of lawfulness
- Rights of light and appropriation of land for planning purposes
- Heritage law
- Rating Law

Town Legal continues to rule the roost as the most highly rated law firm, maintaining a position it has now held for four years. This highly specialised focus, which marks it out from firms that offer planning alongside a range of other services, means Town Legal remains a “really interesting animal” and “real breath of fresh air”, according to one consultant. Another consultant agrees: “They’ve got a good crop of lawyers, who really know their stuff.” and “It’s a well organised, very professional, but also a very user-friendly, client-friendly organisation.”

Experience

Development schemes & strategic land advice:

Mary regularly offers early strategic advice on the promotion of regeneration schemes, considering the prospects of changing policy contexts, testing the robustness of the planning strategy (including the need for certificates of existing use and development/enforcement history) and ultimately shaping the planning application, considering the need for & adequacy of EIA screening &/or scoping opinions. She has considerable experience in schemes involving Green Belt issues, flood risk issues, protected species & their environments, daylight and sunlight assessments, complex transport assessment issues as well as statutory and locally listed buildings and conservation areas. She regularly works in conjunction with colleagues at Town.

Local Plan examinations & Neighbourhood Plans:

Mary is currently advising landowners and developers, appearing at various examinations promoting a new garden village in York on land to be removed from the Green Belt, a new Town at Cranbrook in Devon, the redevelopment of previously developed land in the ANOB and Green Belt in Kent, potential allocations for commercial and residential floorspace on former mineral workings in Essex, an urban extension in Litchfield, and a housing allocation in Windsor and Maidenhead. She successfully resisted the promotion of a retail led town centre on behalf of owners of a well-established out of centre retail centre. She is advising on the policies coming forward in neighbourhood plans designed to limit development opportunities.

Mary has particular experience in Retirement and Care Homes: Acting and advising Churchill Retirement Living, Inspired Villages Group, Elysian Residences and Carebase.

Schools, Colleges & PBSA: Advising various establishments on their development plans and related planning applications involving listed buildings, conservation areas and MOL in Camden and Haringey and in the Green Belt.

Hotels: Currently advising on three hotel projects in London at various stages in the development pipeline and a significant commercial leisure scheme.

Commercial: Currently advising B2/B8 operators in the Green Belt on expansion prospects; owners of former airfields transforming them into mixed use schemes.

Section 78 Appeals: Mary has acted on appeals for Bellway in Buckingham; for A2 Dominion at Siege Cross, West Berkshire; at Forest Farm at Chippenham and Manor Farm in Guildford Borough for Gleeson Strategic Land. She has secured consent on appeal for a residential scheme in the ANOB in Chipping Camden, for Cove Homes in Swallowfield, Wokingham, various mixed-used schemes in London for Goldcrest and beyond. She is currently working on a variety of housing appeals and one for purpose-built student accommodation.

Mary is a leading planning barrister, and prior to Town was a member of Cornerstone Barristers where she served as Joint Head of Chambers. She is one of Town's founding partners.

High Court challenges: Mary is regularly called upon to advise and act for those who wish to defend or challenge the grant of planning permission, whether granted locally or on appeal and very often works with associates at Town.

Compulsory Purchase: Advising Southwark on the Elephant and Castle Shopping Centre redevelopment. Previously acting on various regeneration schemes. Advising Carmarthenshire County Council on road/footway and cycle schemes.

| Steve Quartermain CBE

steve.quartermain@townlegal.com

Steve joined Town in June 2020 having stepped down as the Government's Chief Planner, a post he held since 2008. Steve has over 40 years of practical and policy experience having previously held senior roles in Local Government, the last 12 years of which saw him run all front line services including an economic development function. The council was adjudged an excellent council and the planning services awarded Beacon Council status.

As Chief Planner Steve has been at the heart of the Government's planning reform agenda, most notably the NPPF and planning practice guidance reviews; he managed the casework function and was responsible for the design brief.

Steve was made a Commander of the British Empire in 2015 for services to planning infrastructure.

Steve brings the breadth of his practical and strategic experience on planning and related matters to Town.
